MOKENA M. E. CHURCH
Services Sunday, Feb. 18—

Sunday school, 10:30. Graded lessons and graded organization. Let's have a full attendance next Sunday. There's room for all to have a happy and profitable time.

The formal organization of the Epworth League will take place Sunday evening at the regular devotional hour. This meeting will be a very important one. We are very anxious that every member and everyone interested in the Young People's Society be present.

The topic for the evening worship will be: "The Beauty of Living Together." We especially invite the children to be present at this service. Some stories will be used that always have a universal appeal to old and young.

Make this your Sunday evening Bright Hour.

A. R. MANGUS, Pastor.

The Mokena M. E. church is going to put on a series of eight lectures, beginning February 22nd, and ending April 20th. These lectures will be held every week with the exception of Passion week. Some very high grade talent has been secured for these programs, and everyone is urged to attend these meetings. Season tickets will be sold for $1 for the eight lectures, making the cost about 12½ cents for each lecture, which is certainly more than cheap for high class entertainment. Single admission will be 25c.

These lectures are not being given primarily for the purpose of making money, but to give Mokena good wholesome entertainment at a nominal cost and keep the young folks in town. You cannot say that there is nothing doing in Mokena now. Watch for the display advt. about these lectures, which will appear in the News-Bulletin next week.

All Auto Owners Must Get New License Plates

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 15.—A State-wide drive directed against all automobile owners who have failed to secure 1923 licenses was launched today by Secretary of State Louis L. Emerson.

In a letter addressed to all police chiefs, he asks their cooperation in enforcing their compliance with the law, and the automobile inspectors under his own direction are being sent throughout the State to assist in the roundup.

"Many owners of cars," Secretary Emerson said today, "seem to have the impression that if they get their new licenses any time within the first three months of the year, it will be all right. No such provision is made in the law, and if this was ever true, it was because the Secretary of State found it impossible to issue the licenses fast enough, and a grace period had to be provided to allow time for the mailing out of the plates.

"Under the system perfected in the automobile department under the present administration, there is no longer any delay in sending out plates to applicants. Each day's mail is cared for before closing time in the evening. If a car is without 1923 plates, it is because no application has been made.

"To date we have issued 55% of the entire year's licenses. More than 425,000 licenses have been issued and the plates mailed out to the owners. The collection on these licenses amount to $4,400,000.

"This breaks all past records.

"But in spite of this enormous volume of business, there has been no delay in the department, and we could have taken care of more applications had they come in."

In his letter to police officers, Secretary Emmerson says:

"If you will begin a campaign in your community to secure the enforcement of this law, it will greatly assist me in my official duties, and aid in bringing into the good roads fund quickly the money due it. Every cent collected for automobile licenses goes into the roads fund, to be used in paying off the bonds and interest and in building roads. Automobile drivers who fail to comply with the law, therefore, are hampering to that extent the highway program."

Indications from early receipts, the Secretary says, are that more than $8,500,000 will be collected in automobile fees this year.

Worth May Have New Postmaster

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination to be held at Chicago, Ill., on March 8, 1923, as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth-class postmaster at Worth, Ill., and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interests of the service to fill any vacancy by reinstatement. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $575 for the last fiscal year.

Applicants must have reached their twenty-first birthday on the date of the examination, with the exception that in a State where women are declared by statute to be at full age for all purposes at eighteen years, women eighteen years of age on the date of the examination will be admitted.

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the post-office for which the examination is announced.

Application blanks, Form 1753, and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at the place of vacancy, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Applications should be properly executed and filed with the Commission at Washington, D. C., at the earliest practical date.

C. Keuch Injured While Flipping R. I. Local

Christopher Keuch, well known former resident of Orland township, now of Blue Island, had a close call from serious injury, and perhaps death, Friday afternoon, when he attempted to board the caboose of a moving train on the Rock Island at Tinley Park.

Mr. Keuch, it is said, has been in the habit of riding to Blue Island with the Rock Island local. Friday afternoon this train was backing into the siding, and when the caboose was opposite the depot Mr. Keuch attempted to jump on the moving car, lost his footing, and was struck by the edge of the car and hurled to the ground. He was rolled along the ground, and came near being rolled underneath the wheels of the moving car.

Philip Mager, mail messenger, witnessed the accident, and quickly grabbed hold of Mr. Keuch and pulled him out of danger. As it was, Mr. Keuch suffered a deep cut on the head and was badly bruised about his body. He was assisted to the local depot, while a telephone message was sent to his son William at Blue Island to come with his car to get him, which he did.

At latest reports, Mr. Keuch is getting along nicely.

No More Punch Boards in Mokena

Recently Sheriff John Walker of Will county opened warfare on punch boards thruout the county, as the gambling fever was getting such a strong hold in some communities that men spent their wages in gambling. All the owners of punch boards in Mokena were warned by local officials to do away with the boards of chance, and the past week Officer John Frisch and Deputy Walter Fisher made a trip of inspection and found that all punch boards have been done away with in Mokena.

FROZEN AIR CAUSES BAD WRECK AT CHICAGO RIDGE; TRAINMAN INJURED

Last Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock a west bound Indiana Harbor train ran into a west bound South-Eastern train at Chicago Ridge. Several cars, consisting of coal and lumber, were wrecked, and the wreckage was set on fire from the wrecked engine. A trainman, whose name was not learned, was caught under one of the burning cars. The trainmen and wrecking crew got him out from under the wreck, and he was hurried to a hospital at McCook, Ill. He is said to have been seriously injured.

The engine was badly smashed, and traffic was tied up for several hours. The engineer said the cause of the wreck was due to frozen air, which prevented the brakes from working when he attempted to stop his train from crashing into the train ahead. Both the engineer and fireman escaped injury by jumping.

Mokena Auto

Owners Get Busy

As the result of the item appearing in the News-Bulletin last week calling attention to the warning by the sheriff's office that all auto owners must have their 1923 licenses by Monday, or be subject to arrest, many belated applications for 1923 licenses have been made out by Mokena auto owners. The local notaries report they were rushed with work making out applications the latter part of the week.

An article from Secretary of State Louis Emerson, appearing in this issue, is of timely interest relative to auto owners securing their new licenses on time.

Play Prank on Mokena Man

Clarence Geuther had a bad scare Friday night, when he missed his Dodge car, which he had left standing in front of the Hatch hall while he took part in a play being given by the young people of the Immanuel Lutheran church. Following the performance, he found his car had been taken. He had left his keys in it. After scouring the village, the car was later found standing in front of the old Sutter building, next door to the bank. The keys and a distributing brush had been taken.

New Lenox Hog Breeder rents farm

Howard B. Francis, well known hog breeder of New Lenox township, has rented his farm, and is going to sell what stock he has on hand of Poland China hogs. This will be a fine opportunity for some enterprising farmer to buy good foundation stock, as it is not often that such a chance presents itself to buy good young stuff as in this case. About twenty head of young tops of the Big Type Poland China breed will be sold at auction on Wednesday, Feb. 21st, at the Francis farm, north of New Lenox.

Tinley Park Will Vote on School Bond Issue Sat.

Tinley Park is having another interesting campaign on for the proposed new public school building. On Saturday night of this week a special election will be held for the purpose of voting for or against the following three propositions:

For proposition authorizing the directors to levy a tax of 3 per cent for educational purposes.

For the proposition authorizing the directors to levy a tax of 1 per cent for building purposes.

Shall bonds for the purpose of building a new school building in the sum of $11,044.10 be issued by the directors of District 146?

A great deal of interest and feeling is being stirred up. From present indications, there will be much opposition registered at the coming election. There are two sides—one working hard for a new school, believing it will be a big improvement for the village, and a big factor in building up the town; while the other side contends that "the expense will be too great," and that the present school is good enough. Saturday night will show which side has the most supporters. A lot of hot electioneering is being done, pro and con, this week.

Mokena Has Fire Scares

Soot-clogged chimneys caused two chimneys to burn out Sunday. In the afternoon the chimney on the Ber... residence burned out. In the evening a similar blaze occurred at the George Kohler home. Fire Marshal Herman Schweser and members of the volunteer fire department quickly responded and put the blaze out. No damage was done in either case outside of a bad scare.

MISS LULU BETT

By ZONA GALE

THE SLY ONE

SYNOPSIS.—General factotum in the house of her sister Ina, wife of Herbert Deacon, in the small town of Warbleton, Lulu Bett leads a dull, cramped existence, with which she is constantly at enmity, though apparently satisfied with her lot. Bobby Larkin, recently graduated high-school youth, is secretly enamored of Deacon's elder daughter, Diana. The family is excited over the news of an approaching visit from Deacon's brother, Ninian, whom he had not seen for many years. Unexpectedly, Ninian arrives. Thus he becomes acquainted with Lulu first and understands her position in the house. To Lulu, Ninian is a much-traveled man of the world, and even the slight interest which he takes in her is appreciated, because it is something new in her life. At an outing which the family takes, Ninian and Lulu become confidential. He expresses his disapproval of her treatment as a sort of dependent in the Deacon home. Diana and Bobby, in the course of "soft nothings," discuss the possibility of eloping and "surprising the whole school." Lulu has awakened to pleasant possibilities concerning Ninian's intentions toward herself. Ninian takes the family for a "good time" in the adjacent city. At supper, after the theater, as part of a joke Lulu repeats the words of the civil marriage ceremony, with Ninian. Herbert remembers that a civil wedding is binding in the state, and inasmuch as he is a magistrate, Ninian and Lulu are legally married. They go home, and Lulu returns. She says Ninian married eighteen years ago and wasn't sure that the woman was dead, so she came back.

Lulu went on: "He was very good to me. This dress—and my shoes—and my hat. And another dress, too." She found the pins and took off her hat. "He liked the red wing," she said. "I wanted black—oh, Dwight! He did tell me the truth!" It was as if the red wing had abruptly borne mute witness.

Dwight's tone now mounted. His manner, it mounted too.

"Even if it is true," said he, "I desire that you should keep silent and protect my family from this scandal. I merely mention my doubts to you for your own profit."

"My own profit!"

She said no more, but rose and moved to the door.

"Lulu—you see! With Di and all!" Ina begged. "We just couldn't have this known—even if it was so."

"You have it in your hands," said Dwight, "to repay me, Lulu, for anything that you feel I may have done for you in the past. You also have it in your hands to decide whether your home here continues. That is my choice."

"I will do as you wish," said Lulu, "but I am distinctly unpleasant, I may say. But you see for yourself."

Lulu went on, into the passage.

"Wasn't she married when she thought she was?" Mrs. Bett cried shrilly.

"Mamma," said Ina. "Do, please, remember Monona. Yes—Dwight thinks she's married all right now—and that it's all right, all the time."

"Well, I hope so, for pity sakes," said Mrs. Bett, and left the room with her daughter.

Hearing the stir, Monona upstairs lifted her voice:

"Mamma! Come on and hear my prayers, why don't you?"

When they came downstairs next morning, Lulu had breakfast ready.

Well! cried Ina in her curving tones, "if this isn't like old times."

Lulu said yes, it was like old times, and brought the bacon to the table.

"Lulu's the only one in this house can cook the bacon so's it'll chew."

Under These Prohibitions, Which Loosed a Thousand Speculations, Di Was Very Nearly Paralyzed.

Mrs. Bett volunteered. She was wholly affable, and held contentedly to Ina's last word that Dwight thought now it was all right.

"Ho!" said Dwight. "The happy family, once more about the festive toaster." He gauged the moment to call for good cheer. Ina, too, became breezy, blithe. Monona caught their spirit and laughed, head thrown well back and gently shaken.

Di came in. She had been told that Aunt Lulu was at home, and that she, Di, wasn't to say anything to her about anything, nor anything to anybody else about Aunt Lulu being back. Under these prohibitions, which loosed a thousand speculations, Di was very nearly paralyzed. She stared at her Aunt Lulu incessantly.

Not one of them had even a talent for the casual, save Lulu herself. Lulu was amazingly herself. She took her old place, assumed her old offices. When Monona declared against bacon, it was Lulu who suggested milk toast and went to make it.

"Mamma," Di whispered then, like escaping steam, "isn't Uncle Ninian coming too?"

"Hush. No. Now don't ask any more questions."

"Well, can't I tell Bobby and Jenny she's here?"

"No. Don't say anything at all about her."

"But, mamma. What has she done?"

"Di! Do as mamma tells you. Don't you think mamma knows best?"

Di of course did not think so, had not thought so for a long time. But now Dwight said:

"Daughter! Are you a little girl or are you our grown-up young lady?"

"I don't know," said Di reasonably, "but I think you're treating me like a little girl now."

"Shame, Di," said Ina, unabashed by the accident of reason being on the side of Di.

"I'm eighteen," Di reminded them forlornly, "and through high school."

"Then act so," boomed her father. Baffled, thwarted, bewildered, Di went over to Jenny Plov's and there imparted understanding by the simple process of letting Jenny guess, to questions skillfully shaped.

When Dwight said, "Look at my beautiful handkerchief," displayed a hole, sent his Ina for a better, Lulu, with a manner of haste, addressed him:

"Dwight, it's a funny thing, but I haven't Ninian's Oregon address."

"Well?"

"Well, I wish you'd give it to me."

Dwight tightened and lifted his lips. "It would seem," he said, "that you have no real use for that particular address, Lulu."

"Yes, I have. I want it. You have it, haven't you, Dwight?"

"Certainly I have it."

"Won't you please write it down for me?" She had ready a bit of paper and a pencil stump.

"My dear Lulu, now why revive anything? Why not be sensible and leave this alone?"

"But why shouldn't I have his address?"

"If everything is over between you, why should you?"

"But you say he's still my husband."

Dwight flushed. "If my brother has shown his inclination as plainly as I judge that he has, it is certainly not my place to put you in touch with him again."

"You won't give it to me?"

"My dear Lulu, in all kindness—no."

His Ina came running back, bearing handkerchiefs with different colored borders for him to choose from. He chose the initial that she had embroidered, and had not the good taste not to kiss her.

They were all on the porch that evening, when Lulu came downstairs.

"Where are you going?" Ina demanded, slyly. And on hearing that Lulu had an errand, added still more slyly: "Well, but mercy, what you so dressed up for?"

Lulu was in a thin black and white gown which they had never seen, and wore the tilting hat with the red wing.

"Ninian bought me this," Lulu only said.

"But, Lulu, don't you think it might be better to keep, well—out of sight for a few days?" Ina's lifted look besought her.

"Why?" Lulu asked.

"Why set people wondering till we have to?"

"They don't have to wonder, far as I'm concerned," said Lulu, and went down the walk.

Ina looked at Dwight. "She never spoke to me like that in her life before," she said.

She watched her sister's black and white figure going directly down the street.

"That gives me the funniest feeling," said Ina, "as if Lulu had on clothes bought for her by some one that wasn't—that was—"

"By her husband who has left her," said Dwight sadly.

"Is that what it is, papa?" Di asked alertly. For a wonder, she was there; had been there the greater part of the day—most of the time staring, fascinated, at her Aunt Lulu.

"That's what it is, my little girl," said Dwight, and shook his head.

"Well, I think it's a shame," said Di stoutly. "And I think Uncle Ninian is a slunge."

"Di!"

"I do. And I'd be ashamed to think anything else. I'd like to tell everybody."

"There is," said Dwight, "no need for secrecy—now."

"Dwight!" said Ina—Ina's eyes always remained expressionless, but it must have been her lashes that looked so startled.

"No need whatever for secrecy," he repeated with firmness. "The truth is Lulu's husband has tired of her and sent her home. We must face it."

"But, Dwight—how awful for Lulu!"

"Lulu," said Dwight, "has us to stand by her."

Lulu, walking down the main street, thought:

"Now Mis' Chambers is seeing me. Now Mis' Curtis. There's somebody behind the vines at Mis' Martin's. Here comes Mis' Grove and I've got to speak to her . . ."

One and another and another met her, and every one cried out at her some version of:

"Lulu Bett!" Or, "W-well, it isn't Lulu Bett any more, is it? Well, what are you doing here? I thought . . ."

"I'm back to stay," she said.

"The idea! Well, where you hiding that handsome husband of yours? Say, but we were surprised! You're the sly one—"

"My—Mr. Deacon isn't here."

"Oh."

"No. He's West."

"Oh, I see."

Having no arts, she must needs let the conversation die like this, could invent nothing concealing or gracious on which to move away.

She went to the post office. It was early, there were few at the post of-

NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Secretary Hughes to Keep on the Job

With the Hughes resignation rumor there was coupled a story that there have been differences lately between President Harding and Mr. Hughes over policies connected with the French occupation of the Ruhr valley.

One of the reasons for the present display of hostile feeling toward the secretary of state on the part of certain senators is that he is suspected of having a too kindly sympathy for the principle underlying the League of Nations, not with the league itself, but with international conferences designed to adjust differences between governments and pave the way for permanent peace.

The course of the Harding administration in keeping troops on the Rhine, in maintaining an observer with the reparations commission, in sending "official observers" to the Lausanne conference on Near Eastern affairs, in having Ambassador Harvey sit with the allied supreme council and Ambassador Herrick sit with the allied council of ambassadors, and in suggesting informally that a commission of international financiers should undertake to fix the amount of reparations Germany would be able to pay, has not been pleasing to most of the old irreconcilable group in the senate.

A few members of the group have such a dislike for Mr. Hughes that they are counting on making the drive so determined that Mr. Hughes may see his way to leaving the Harding cabinet. It is they who are responsible for the circulation of a rumor that Mr. Hughes was about to resign.

"The story that I intend to resign has not a particle of truth in it," said Secretary Hughes. "I have had no disagreement with the President or Ambassador Harvey. We have the closest and most cordial relations."

DECLARES TANLAC "IS BEST OF ALL"

St. Paul Woman Says Stomach Trouble Is Gone and She Has Gained 10 Pounds.

"Tanlac has meant health and happiness to me, and I think it has no equal," declared Mrs. Albert Kapling, highly-respected resident of 29 E. 10th St., St. Paul, Minn.

"I was so terribly run down my housework seemed like a mountain to me, and lots of times I had to give up and rest. I was nervous, weak, and had splitting headaches and awful dizzy spells. My stomach was so badly out of order almost everything I ate would sour and I suffered terribly from gas, heartburn and a distressing smothering feeling. I could not sleep nights, my back ached terribly, I lost weight till my clothes didn't fit, and was in a generally wretched condition."

"But now I get real joy out of caring for my house. Since taking Tanlac I have gained ten pounds, never have indigestion and all my aches and pains are gone. I take pleasure in recommending Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

The Valuation of Jesus

By REV. C. P. MEEKER
Director Practical Work Course,
Sunday Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—And I said unto them, if ye think good, give me my price; and if not forbear. So they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver.—Zech. 11:12.

The context clearly shows that the pronouns in our Scripture selection refer to Jehovah; and that the price here determined constituted a deliberate and careful estimate of His value, for it was weighed.

The prophetic fulfillment of this passage is seen in the betrayal of Jesus to the Jewish rulers by Judas; for they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver.

On a certain occasion Jesus silenced His enemies, the Pharisees and Sadducees by the question: "What think ye of Christ?" That is, what is your estimate of Him? At what do you appraise Him? Is He worth nothing or everything to you?

One of the great saints of the church said: "We do not value Him at all, unless we value Him above all." Measured by this yardstick, what is your measure? What prospect have you of getting through in the face of God's declaration, "That all men should honor the Son, even as they honor the Father. He that honoreth not the Son honoreth not the Father. He that honoreth not the Son honoreth not the Father which hath sent Him."

To set a price upon Christ is inevitable. Pilate vainly sought to evade this responsibility, and for all we know, is spending his eternity in futile efforts to wash his hands of the blood of the One of whose condemnation to death he publicly declared himself innocent.

All the issues of our dealings with Christ are fraught with eternal consequences. Whether our attitude be one of mere neglect, cool indifference, deliberate rejection, or bitter opposition, we set a price on His head. And God will hold every one who is accountable and rational, responsible for their attitude toward His Son. This Judas discovered to his complete undoing when he essayed to return the thirty pieces of silver to the high priests. Their reply to his remorseful confession, "I have betrayed the innocent blood," was like a death knell to his hope of retrieving his fatal mistake.

It is of more than passing interest to note that His appraisers were the highest representatives of His nation, of its social and intellectual standards, and of the greatest religious system of the day; viz., Judaism. Those who should have esteemed Him most highly seemed to value Him the least. But this is no less than the Master expected, for He warned His disciples that a man's enemies shall be they of his own household. Nevertheless, it does not relieve the shock of finding that your familiars and your beneficiaries have lifted up the heel against you. This truly is the most unkind of all. When Julius Caesar recognized Brutus, his one-time friend and companion, among his conspirators and assassins, he felt the hurt of his stab more than the others and exclaimed "et tu Brutus!" (And you, Brutus!) So Christ said, "Judas, betrayest thou the Son of Man with a kiss."

By every rule of common gratitude the Lord's people, along with every institution of the social order and of learning, should set the highest price on the head of Christ; for He is the author and patron of every worthwhile benefit our modern civilization has to bestow. If this is doubted, compare the civilization of the Orient with that of the Occident and just one person accounts for the difference—Christ; and just one system of influence is responsible for it—Christianity.

How unspcakably unjust then was this price, when viewed in the light of His service for mankind; and yet the prevailing disposition is to underestimate the value of God's love and grace, of both which He is the perfect embodiment. It no longer seems wonderful that God loves us, that Christ died to save us, and that through His death and resurrection all the treasures of His grace are opened for our inheritance.

Dear reader, will you permit me to ask a very personal question in closing? At the beginning of this New Year, what is your estimate of Christ? If you were faced with the actual alternative, Christ or the world with its pleasures and its preferments, which would you choose? Many have pursued these will-o'-the-wisps only to lose all for their pains. The sad complaint of Lord Bolingbroke to his king on his death bed should serve as a warning against this folly: "Oh, sir, if I had served my God as faithfully as I have served you, my king, I would not now be dying in despair." The things of this world at best are only temporal, and deceptive; only the things of Christ are satisfying and eternal. Therefore, set your affections on things above, yea on Christ who sitteth on the right hand of God.

Vanity keeps persons in favor with themselves, who are out of favor with all others.—Shakespeare.

SETTLED THE WHOLE MATTER

Flapper Saw Dreadful Possibility if She Followed Advice Given Her by Business Woman.

The Capable Business Woman is an "employment expert" in one of the large downtown offices. The types that come to her are many and interesting. One girl applied. She wore clothes that were technically within the law, and no more. Her face wore a heavy mask of rouge and powder. Her hair "frizzled" bobbed hair was adorned with a ridiculous hat.

"I'd like a position as sten, here," she announced.

"I'm afraid I have nothing for you," replied the Business Woman somewhat coldly, and then becoming conscience-stricken at her total lack of sympathy with the flapper, she added in a friendly tone: "May I give you a bit of advice? I hope you won't misunderstand me when I say you are not appropriately dressed for an office. You should dress more discreetly, otherwise you may be misjudged. Next time you apply for a position wear a dress with real sleeves, don't curl your hair so tightly, and if you must wear rouge, put it on sparingly. You might also get a semi-tailored hat."

"Good heaven!" interrupted the flapper, aghast. "If I dressed that way I'd look like you."—New York Sun.

DIFFERENT KIND OF CAPTAIN

That Particular Police Official Was the Incarcerator, Not Liberator, of Suspected Persons.

The letters O. R. following the name on the slate at the city prison mean that the person named has been released from jail on his own recognizance, or without being required to give bond. Naturally, the first thought of an attorney representing a prisoner is to obtain the release of his client on his O. R.

Several days ago a lawyer walked into the office of Edward Shubert, captain of police, at headquarters and made an eloquent plea for the release on his own recognizance of a craps shooter. His plea fell on deaf ears.

"Say, look here, you've got the wrong captain," Shubert said. "There's the let 'em pass out captain over there. I'm the put 'em in captain." The lawyer left the office, shaking his head.—Indianapolis News.

Due for Disappointment.

"Well, I'll tell you, Gap," said Zeke Lopp, "I aim to sell off some of my stuff, pack the rest of it and the old woman and children into the waggin, whistle to the dogs, and start for Oklahoma."

"All right," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "But 'pears like I've heered, from two, three fellers that have been there, that the ravens hain't running no free boarding house in Oklahoma this year."—Kansas City Star.

LIVED UP TO HIS GROUCH

New Yorker Surely Went the Limit Between Saturday Afternoon and Monday Morning.

Wijit had a grouch when he left the office Saturday afternoon. He refused an invitation to join a friend who said he knew a place where the modern substitute for the wild thyme blows and started for his lonesome home.

The grouch was still in evidence when he reached Monday morning.

"I got home Saturday, he said, and around a while, took a nap and decided I did not want to go out to dinner, so I drank a part of a bottle of stale milk and went to bed. I have spoken just two words since I went away Saturday. They are the name of a brand of cigar, and I used them in buying a smoke."

"Didn't you speak to the waiter where you get your meals?" asked a friend.

"Not a word," said the owner of the grouch. "I ate in a nickle-in-the-slot place."—New York Sun.

Complications.

"What is this platonic love, anyhow?"

"It is supposed to be sort of intellectual attachment, in which a man and a woman gain inspiration from each other by an interchange of thought."

"I see."

"But it usually leads to a situation in which some lawyers or a court functionary speaks the last word."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

What is good health worth to you?

HEALTH is priceless. You wouldn't knowingly part with it for anything in the world.

Why then do you risk it needlessly for the sake of a few cups of coffee? Coffee contains caffeine, a harmful drug which often interferes with nerves and digestion.

There's an easy, pleasant way to avoid this menace to health, without any sacrifice of comfort or satisfaction. Drink Postum instead of coffee.

Postum is a pure, cereal beverage—wholesome and delicious—a safeguard for health.

FRANKFORT

The Home Improvement Club met with Mrs. H. Breidert Thursday of this week.

The four weeks' old child of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schroeder died Sunday of double pneumonia.

The young people of the Evangelical church entertained at a Valentine party at the church Tuesday evening.

Miss Eleanor Breidert, daughter of Jacob Breidert, and Walter Peters of Peotone were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in St. Peter's Evangelical church. The Rev. G. Lambrecht read the service.

Miss Lucinda Breidert, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Walter Peters was the bridegroom's attendant. The bride wore a gown of navy blue canton crepe and a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Her maid of honor wore a frock of brown canton crepe and her corsage was of pink roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple departed on a short wedding trip. On their return they will reside on the Henry Albrecht farm, eight miles southeast of Frankfort.

Miss Tillie Bettenhausen entertained the Pinochle club at her home Thursday afternoon. Pinochle was played at three tables, prizes being awarded to those having high scores. Luncheon was served.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Catherine Erbs of Chicago to Mr. George Green, formerly of Frankfort, which took place in Chicago on February 7th.

The local lodge of Royal Neighbors of America directed a public pinochle party in their hall on February 14th, in the evening. Supper was served after the game.

William Peters, who has been ill for three weeks, is improving. His son, George Peters of Brooklyn, Iowa, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Max Haas.

Walter Kohlshagen is ill with pneumonia at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Schultz have moved to Matteson, where they will reside.

Mokena

Mrs. Emma Bechstein and daughter Edna are visiting with the former's brother at Mattoon, Ill.

Tuesday was a day of varied weather, ranging from fog, sleet, snow, thunder storms to cold wave. In the trail of this conglomeration of weather have arisen many cases of illness due to the slush. Mr. Johnson, section foreman on the Rock Island, is ill; also Paul Rinke, Sr., and Jake Shattley, who have been serving as flagmen at the depot crossing, were unable to be on the job Thursday. John Mattes is serving as temporary flagman.

Herbert Moriarty, Mokena auctioneer, has had a sale every day this week. In spite of the cold weather, he reports good crowd and good prices at every sale.

John Groth, former Mokena resident, now of Wisconsin, recently sold his farm stock at auction at Eagle, Wis., and will leave soon for California, where he expects to make his future home. Mrs. Groth is expected to arrive here this week to visit with relatives. Miss Eva Groth, who has been employed at the Blacy ice cream parlor at Joliet, will accompany her parents to California when they leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steinhagen entertained a company of friends at a bunco party Wednesday night.

The 500 club was entertained at the home of Mrs. John Hatch Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Julius Hirsch has returned from a trip to California.

A Valentine party was held at the Mokena school Wednesday afternoon.

The play, "Mother Mine," which was presented by the young folks of the Immanuel Lutheran church, at the Hatch hall, last Thursday and Friday nights, was well attended, and about $125.00 were cleared. The young folks showed marked talent and carried out their parts well.

John Balaz is the owner of a new Oldsmobile.

A Complaint

Many of the residents cleaned their walks following the storm Tuesday, and equally as many, if not more of our citizens were too lazy to clean their walks, which left some of them in a very bad condition and perilous to walk on. The village board ought to pass an ordinance compelling property owner or renter to clear the walks in front of their premises. If anyone should fall on such icy walks, suit could be brought against the village for damages in case of injury.

A CITIZEN

NEW LENOX

The Grace Episcopal ladies gave a card party at Grange hall Tuesday night, and in spite of the cold weather, there was a good attendance, and the affair was quite a success financially.

The M. W. A. held their monthly meeting at the Grange hall Monday night. A feed followed the business session, and all had a big time.

The R. N. A. met Tuesday at this hall.

The youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Craven, who has been ill with diphtheria, is improving.

The smallpox epidemic has passed over, and public gatherings and meetings are in order again.

Mrs. A. J. Kennedy has returned from Missouri, where she had been visiting with her sister.

A few changes are going to be made in residences this spring. It is understood that George and Charles Nelson are going to move into the former Weber place, now occupied by Axel Peterson, which they purchased last fall. Mr. Peterson, it is said, expects to move in the Rutledge dwelling, which the latter will vacate soon as his new house, which he is now building, is finished.

Chicago's Biggest Bogus Liquor Plant Found

Chicago police have just discovered probably the largest liquor distilling plant in that city. From the basement of the place a tunnel ran to a garage where the fake whisky and gin, in counterfeit bottles and with counterfeit labels, was loaded for distribution. The illustration shows the inside of the bottling room, and a case of bogus Gordon gin starting through the tunnel.

MANY WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

Through the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Two Interesting Cases

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the common ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Mrs. Edwards Avoids Operation
Wilson, N. C.—"For about a year I was not able to do anything, not even my housework, because of the pains in my sides and the bearing-down pains. I could only lie around the house. The doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, but I tried different medicines which did no good, until my sister insisted on my trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She said there was nothing like it. I know that she was right, for I began to improve with the first bottle and it has done me more good than anything else. I am able now to do anything on the farm or in my home and I recommend it to my friends."—LILLIE EDWARDS, R.F.D. 3, Box 44, Wilson, N. C.

Another Operation Avoided
Akron, Ohio.—"I can never praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I had such pains and weakness that the doctor told me nothing but an operation would help me. But my mother had taken the Vegetable Compound and she told me what it had done for her, and so I took it and I am glad to tell every one that it made me a strong woman, and I have had two children since then."—Mrs. R. G. WESTOVER, 325 Grant Street, Akron, Ohio.

Read what the British People, also U. S. Clergymen and Judge Say

Very Remarkable British Case
Church Street, Malpas, Cheshire, England.

"For eleven years I suffered acute pain and sickness. I consulted several prominent doctors and each had a different opinion. At last I was put under X-Rays. I was suffering from gall stones. My doctors and the specialist at the Royal Infirmary, Chester, told me they were not porous and no medicine would move them, so there remained nothing but an operation. When my wife heard this she told me to get Dodd's Kidney Pills, as they had cured her of black jaundice and gall stones. It is now nineteen years since my wife felt any symptoms of these troubles. I purchased a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills and took them. This is seven years ago and I have had no return of the trouble.

"It was a surprise for all the doctors. They had to admit the fact as I was under the X-Rays several times. I am enjoying the best of health and have lost no time through sickness. Dr. Frank Mathews, Welsh Row, Nantwich, has a photo of my kidneys and the stones. I also suffered with rheumatism before I was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have recommended these pills to all sufferers I know. They are simply marvelous in relieving sufferers of kidney and rheumatic complaints. I also know of a case of Bright's Disease which they cured."

Rev. W. H. Warner, 158 E. Ridge St., Nanticoke, Pa., writes:
"My trouble was sciatica. My back was affected and took the form of lumbago. I also had neuralgia, cramps in my muscles, pressure or sharp pain on the top of my head, and nervous, dizzy spells. I had other symptoms showing my kidneys were affected, so I took Dodd's Kidney Pills. They were the means of saving my life."

THE BLIZZARD

"I'm ready for some fun," said Sir Blizzard. "Yes, I most certainly am all ready for fun."

"I'm going to have such fun that the people will say that it is the worst blizzard they have known and that they haven't seen a storm like this in ever so long."

"They will say that this has been the coldest weather they have ever known, or course they often say all of these things. But that is because they can't speak too well of Sir Blizzard and his friends."

"They can't just say that I'm Sir Blizzard or Blizzard. But they have to say they have never known such a blizzard or something like that."

"They must praise me in the highest terms possible. They must say things like this or they feel they don't properly do me justice."

"I'm not so sure that they feel that way about you," said the Crystal Sisters. They don't want to praise you so much but they think you're so bad that they can't half describe you."

"Whether they think I'm bad or good makes no difference to me," said Sir Blizzard, "as long as I get them to say that I am a regular blizzard all right. That is all I care about."

"It amuses me the way they say the same things year after year. There is one young man who speaks of the weather as being the coldest he has ever known. He does that every single winter."

"And surely each winter isn't colder than the last one, but he says so! Ha, ha," and Sir Blizzard gave a cold laugh.

"Well," said the Crystal Sisters, "we're glad you invited us to join the fun. We wouldn't have missed this for anything."

"We love to dance down on the window ledges and roofs and we are so hard that we make quite a lot of noise."

"We like noise, too!"

"I heard such a funny thing the other day," said Madame Snow, "and that was they had a lot of snow in a city and that when a merry little sleigh was taken out with bells jingling from it, that lots and lots of people stood and stared as though they had never seen a sleigh before."

"The Snow Flake messengers brought me this message, and I was much amused, much amused."

"Ah, but we're talking too quietly," said Sir Blizzard, "if you will pardon me for interrupting."

"Certainly, certainly," said Madame Snow.

"May we join the fun?" asked the Snow Flake messengers.

"Oh yes," said Sir Blizzard. "Glad to have you. But you must be rough."

"You know I believe in roughness."

"We know," said the Snow Flake messengers.

"Indeed we do," said the Crystal Sisters.

So all of the Crystal Sisters and the Snow Flakes, and Prince Sleet and Madame Snow and all of the other snow creatures joined the fun.

"They were expecting us some time ago, but we fooled them and didn't come then."

"Then when we began to appear, but didn't play very roughly they said that wasn't the blizzard they were expecting," said Sir Blizzard.

"So you see they were expecting us. But we'll give them a treat this time. Oh yes, we'll give them a good old blizzard."

"We'll let the snow drift in great piles and then we'll blow snow one way and then the other, first to one side and next to the other side. The snow will have some fine old races."

"And it will be some time before the people have clear weather."

"Some of the snow children may try to drift into the windows if they like. Of course they are never welcome and they're only wiped up in a hurry."

"We mustn't mind little things like that. We must storm, storm, storm, heigh ho, heigh ho!" ended Sir Blizzard.

He's "Columbus" Now.

In a public school recently the teacher asked a boy pupil to tell something about Christopher Columbus. This was his answer:

"Columbus discovered America. He never told a lie. He once cut down his father's cherry tree with his hatchet. He did his arithmetic examples on a fire shovel, and once, when he was all dressed up he pulled a pig out of a mud-puddle where he was stuck. He was kind-hearted."

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 18

JESUS AND ZACCHAEUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 19:1-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost—Luke 19:10.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Prov. 3:13-18; Matt. 9:9-13; Luke 16:1-13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Having Jesus for a Visitor.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus in the Home of Zacchaeus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Saved an Extortioner.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Standards in Business.

I. Jesus Passing Through Jericho (v. 1).

Jericho is noted as the stronghold of the Canaanites, which was miraculously delivered into the hands of Israel in response to their faith (Josh. 6), and also for the faith of Rahab, which saved her from destruction with the city (Heb. 11:30, 31).

II. Zacchaeus Seeking Jesus (vv. 2-4).

1. His Object (v. 3). He sought to see who Jesus was. Though perhaps prompted by curiosity he eagerly sought Jesus. He doubtless had heard of Jesus' kind treatment of publicans, so was prompted to see what kind of a man He was.

2. His Difficulties (vv. 2, 3). (1) His infamous business (v. 2). He was a tax collector of the Roman government. The very fact that a Jew held such an office under the hated Romans would make him extremely unpopular. Then since he was rich it was evident that he had practiced extortion in collecting the taxes. (2) His shortness of stature (v. 3). He was too small to crowd his way through to Jesus, and being hated by the people they thrust him aside, no doubt with taunts and jeers. (3) His persistence (v. 4). He ran before the multitude and climbed up into a tree. What he lacked in stature he was determined should be made up by the height of the tree. Obstacles placed before him he brushed aside and those he could not brush aside he climbed over, because he had set his heart upon the goal. Though Zacchaeus' legs were too short to enable him to see Jesus they were long enough to run past the crowd and enable him to climb the tree. It was somewhat undignified for this rich man to climb the tree, but his soul was so desirous to see Jesus that he cast his pride to the winds.

III. Jesus Finding Zacchaeus (vv. 5, 6).

While Zacchaeus was trying to see Jesus, Jesus was looking for him. This is always the case. When Jesus saw him he commanded him to come down from the tree and declared his intention to go home with him. Zacchaeus got more than he expected. Jesus did not utter a word which would humiliate Zacchaeus. Jesus knew his heart's desire and dealt accordingly with him. All souls who earnestly seek Jesus shall be found of Him. How wonderful His grace, that regardless of one's past life, that Jesus will receive him as a friend and enter into fellowship with him. Zacchaeus quickly responded. He came down and with joy received Jesus.

IV. Zacchaeus' Conversion (vv. 7-10).

His conversion was sudden and thorough. He was converted before he had reached the ground. It does not take Jesus long to save a soul. 1. What the Crowd Said (v. 7). They said just what they say today when sinners come to Christ. They called to mind the man's former sins. They also reproached Christ, saying that he had come to be a guest of this notorious extortioner, the tax collector. His supreme mission was to save sinners (v. 10). Jesus came not to condemn us, but to save us; not to shame and destroy us, but to save from sin and reconcile us to God our Father. 2. What Zacchaeus Said (v. 8). His conversion was thorough. It took hold upon his heart. His new life was begun with resolution and restitution. He dedicated the half of his goods to the poor. His conversion got hold of his pocketbook. His determination to make restitution wherein he had wrongfully exacted taxes shows the genuineness of his conversion. While God forgets the past of a sinner when he comes to Christ, the sinner who is converted will seek to make right all wrongs, be they unkind words or unrighteous deeds. 3. What Jesus Said (vv. 9, 10). "Today is salvation come to this house." The publican was now a child of God, a son of Abraham. Salvation is a present reality when one receives Christ.

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Winter Find You Tired and Achy?

DOES winter find you miserable with an aching back? Do you get up lame and stiff—lag through the day tired, weak and depressed? Do you know why you are so run down?

There's good reason for your condition and likely it's weak kidneys. Winter's colds and chills throw a heavy burden on the kidneys. The kidneys fall behind and poisons accumulate. It's little wonder, then, that you suffer backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities.

Don't risk serious kidney disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills before it is too late. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good Folks:

C. W. Tollinger, city police, Delavan, Ill., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for a good many years, for I am out in all kinds of weather and it affected my kidneys. The least cold I got always settled on my kidneys. I also have had trouble with the kidney secretions, as they have passed too freely at night. I have had a tired, languid feeling, too. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me, so I bought some. They have never failed to relieve the trouble with my back and regulate my kidneys."

Mrs. Frank Ganley, DeMay St., Harbor Beach, Mich., says: "I had a lame back and irregular kidney action, brought on by a cold settling in my kidneys. My back was heavy and tired, which made me feel drugged and played out, without a bit of ambition. At night my back bothered me so much I was restless and felt tired on getting up mornings. Dizzy spells would come over me and black specks darted before me. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after using one box I was relieved."

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair!—Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly.
A few cents buys a jar of "Hair-Groom" at any drug store. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combed cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.

He was an old man and he was standing beside the hat counter of a department store.

Doubtful Recommendation.

A London newspaper contains an advertisement of an old English home to be sold, which begins in the familiar style—"Twelve bedrooms, four sitting rooms, paneled dining room, large nooks, dower chests," etc., and suddenly breaks off from the catalog of ancient blessings with this modernism: "But, owing to electric light, no ghost." One hardly knows whether this exception will add to or detract from the "pulling" power of the announcement.—Outlook.

As Sponge Comes From the Sea.

If the sponge as brought up fresh from the seashore were a familiar object few persons would be in doubt as to its being an animal. When fresh it is a fleshy-looking substance, covered with a firm skin. Its cavities are filled with a gelatinous substance called "milk."

New Educational Institute To Give Truths About Transportation To Public

To Give Information, Oppose Mal-Information and Correct Misinformation

THE National Transportation Institute, a new institution for research and dissemination of knowledge relating to all phases of transportation, having the support of President Harding, many Senators and Representatives, of both parties, and Interstate Commerce Commissioners, is to be established at Washington.

This was disclosed at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York a few evenings ago, attended by prominent business men from all parts of the country and presided over by J. R. Howard, Ex-President of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

According to Mr. Howard, the institute is "to give information, to correct misinformation, to oppose mal-information, in all matters of transportation."

The idea of the National Transportation Institute originated with Bird M. Robinson, president of the American Short Line Railroad Association. He saw the need of authentic, unbiased information put out from an unquestioned source, as soon as erroneous information is made public.

Announcement that Edgar E. Clark, former chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has agreed to accept the chairmanship of the Board of Governors was made by Mr. Robinson. The board is to be composed of eminent authorities not having direct transportation interests and it will control all policies and public relations of the institute.

The institute is to be so supported and controlled as to make certain its impartiality and disinterestedness and the consideration of all questions coming before it from the standpoint solely of the public interest, declared Representative Sydney Anderson, of Minnesota, chairman of the Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry of the U. S. Congress, who was one of the speakers and was prominent in the organization work.

"There is now no agency considering transportation as a whole," Mr. Anderson continued, "developing the facts touching the relation of different forms of transportation to each other or the transportation machine to agriculture, industry and commerce of the nation."

The objects of the National Transportation Institute were declared to be:

"To aid the people of the United States in obtaining and maintaining the most efficient transportation facilities and service in the world.

"To aid in gathering and disseminating facts and correct information with respect to the transportation facilities and service, and to show just compensation for such services.

"To aid in education with reference to transportation problems, so that public sentiment will forbid forcing upon the Government the enormous cost of acquiring existing facilities and providing necessary additional ones, and the great burden of furnishing transportation.

"To promote an understanding and realization that the interests of the country, its people, and its portation agencies, are inseparably linked.

"To aid in education with respect to the problem of distribution, insofar as it affects or is affected by transportation."

Among those sponsoring the dinner at which the plans for the new Washington body were announced were the chief executives of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, National Milk Producers Association, International Farm Congress, Railway Business Association, National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association, National Retail Grocers Association, National Wholesale Grocers Association, Michigan Manufacturers Association, Western Pine Manufacturers Association, American Short Line Railroad Association and the National Dairy Association.
